

ORLAND COUPLE CELEBRATE 60TH ANNIVERSARY

One of the happiest occasions this community has had for some time, was shared by relatives and friends, in helping Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Sayers of Orland Park, Illinois celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary, on Sunday February 17th.

The guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Creer, in Orland Park, where dinner was served promptly at twelve o'clock, noon.

Covers were laid for thirty-two guests who were, beside the honored guests: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cooper of La Grange, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Will Cooper of Goodland, Ind., Mrs. Kate Cooper of Mokena, Mrs. Peter Sinclair of New Lenox, Mrs. Fannie Ormond of Decatur, Mr. John Creer, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sayers of Elma, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sayers, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sayers, Mr. and Mrs. John Sayers and Howard and Marjorie Sayers of Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sayers and the only great grandchildren, Evelyn Sayers, Billie Mutch and Miss Ruth Brier.

'Open House' was held in the James Creer hall, from two to five in the afternoon, where 120 relatives and friends were received.

As 60 years ago on this date, at three o'clock, Benjamin Sayers and Ellen Cooper were married, it was most fitting that a short program should be rendered at this time.

Mrs. H. Adele Cooper, played, "Sweet Remembrance", by Bendel. Mrs. Paul Sanders and Clarence Beagley sang, "Loves Old Sweet Song". Rev. Paul Sanders spoke, in well chosen words, of the past sixty years of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Sayers and of the service which they have rendered to their community. Rev. John Mullen, pastor of the Orland Park M. E. church offered prayer.

Evelyn Sayers and Billie Mutch sang, "School Days". Ice Cream and cake were served by the grandchildren.

Beautiful bouquets of roses, carnations, cut flowers, also boxes and potted plants were received by the honored guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Creer were in charge of the Guest Book.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Haley of Marley, who celebrated their golden wedding a few years ago, were present, as well as many from the surrounding towns.

This was an occasion which was enjoyed by all and will be long remembered by those who were permitted to share this day with this splendid couple.

Tinley Legion Post Musical Roundup Brilliant Success

The Musical Roundup, presented by the Tinley Park Post of the American Legion last Friday night in the Tinley Park school auditorium, was a huge success.

From the first number to the last one, the audience sat stuned at the marvelous quality of the talent presented, and also at the perfection of each number. The program was very skillfully balanced, and the direction was perfect, so all who saw the performance had a new thrill with each number.

The stage was dressed with a fine grand piano, thru the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winsor, and a beautiful panel background, made of silver and American Beauty crepe paper, which was donated by the Boldt Advertising Service. The lighting effects were furnished by Mr. Victor McMillian and were operated by Mr. Wm. Chappell.

The verse contest was a big hit. Three poems were contributed which were read from the stage and the winning one was set to music, which was improvised immediately by Mr. Fred Erickson, who also sang it, and then presented, both the music and words to the party who turned them in, who was Mrs. Fred Stuckey of Frankfort.

A few of the highlights of the program were: the vocal solos by Mr. Donald Holt, who sang, "Smile Dear" and "My Mother's Melody" which were composed by Mr. Erickson. The bass solo of Mr. R. Gonia and the tenor solo of Mr. B. Campbell were also splendidly delivered and heartily received. The Hawaiian Trio, The Three Aces, Carlos Hall of Joliet and his sisters from Mokena, entertained in their usual faultless manner and received great approval. Also the numbers by the "Serenaders", the Pokorney Bros., K. Devlin and A. Schultz, Paul Schultz, and the Woman's Club Trio were well received.

The fine piano solos by Mr. Edward Ryan were masterfully delivered and received a great hand. The recitations of Miss Joy Berg, Master Milton Lucious and the monologue by Mrs. M. A. Hall were fine.

The dance numbers by Miss Lee Schoeneck, the Zarth Sisters, the Deisel Sisters and the professional dancing class of the Jean Barr School of Drama and Music, received tremendous applause and were encored several times. The ability of all these girls in both straight tap dancing and acrobatic, singing and expression was marvelous for girls of their age and they bid well to go far in their profession. The duet of Miss Bagby and Miss Andres was lovely and enjoyed by all.

The Tinley Park Male Quartett closed the program with a group of songs and were the big hit of the evening. The arrangement and perfection of these songs were beautiful.

The Chorus of the school children from the Fort Dearborn school in Chicago was also a featured attraction, and they entertained with several school numbers which were marvelous exhibitions of the amount of training given to pupils in the schools today.

This Paper wishes to congratulate Mr. L. Stoltenberg, for arranging and the directing of this fine entertainment, which, was a great credit to the community, and we hope that some time in the near future, he will be prevailed upon by other organizations to again produce a similar affair. Following is the program as presented:

Songs, "Good Ship Lollypop" and "The Isle of Capri", by Edward and Joseph Pokorney.

THE SWEET FLAVORED GUM

GOLDEN DAWN

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin decides to adopt a baby in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball, hit into the bleachers, strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin retires from business, wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, is a rising young psychiatrist.

CHAPTER II—Continued

For the next four years Lanny did not see her boy, but he wrote her and remembered her at Christmas and on her birthdays. He was an honor graduate from the Leland Stanford Junior Medical school and was immediately given an internship at the University hospital in San Francisco. Inasmuch as Lanny frequently had patients at that hospital, they met several times a year. Lanny kept her ear to the ground, harkening to reports of his progress from worthwhile sources, and learned that he was regarded as a young doctor of distinct promise.

One day, after he had been two years an interne, they met in the corridor. "I've been wanting to see you, Stevie," Lanny began without any preliminary fencing. It's time for your postgraduate course in Europe."

"Impossible, Lanny. My father has had a frightful reversal of fortune. He's done a father's full duty by me and I'm not going to graft off him and perhaps sacrifice him in his old age. I'm self-supporting now and even saving a little from my salary. In a few years I shall be able to afford a modest office and go in for general practice."

"You've followed my program thus far and you'll continue until it's finished," Lanny announced. "I'll loan you the money. The five thousand dollars your father gave me has grown to seventy-five hundred dollars—and I've saved two thousand more, so I'm going to bank you, and you shall pay me six per cent on the money you borrow, and secure me by life insurance." She was thoughtful for a few moments. "Well, perhaps three years abroad will benefit you more than four years would an ordinary man. So we'll cut the program to three years. After all, you must have some comforts; you've got to live like a gentleman. You will resign here today and I'll have the money for you tomorrow."

"Oh, Lanny, you dear old sport, I can't do that!"

Thereupon Lanny struck him in a vital spot. Her stern and lonely soul was touched. Not often did she indulge herself in the weakness of tears, but they flooded her eyes now and her breast heaved.

He was always touched at the sight of suffering; the vast underlying sympathy in his nature would never have it otherwise. Abruptly she left him! She knew he would seek her out later, to protest at greater length, to avow himself her eternal debtor for the offer and again decline it.

He called upon her at her lodgings that night—and Lanny won. It was a hard battle, but when Lanny, so to speak, lowered her head and went in to win, usually she succeeded.

Well, she had her way, and when he returned from Europe she had an office ready for him. She would be forty years old on her next birthday, and after eighteen years of the drudgery of private nursing she looked forward to her position in Stephen Burt's office with pleasurable anticipation.

She met him at the ferry depot, and he took her to his heart and kissed her five times—twice on each cheek and once on the lips. "Well, old pal," he said almost immediately, "I'm a specialist. Neurologist and psychiatrist, and you're to be my first patient. I must go over you thoroughly and see what makes you act the way you do."

Success was Stephen's. Modest at first, of course, but of rapid growth, and Lanny knew why. His patients fell in love with him and advertised him to their friends.

In two years Stephen Burt had repaid Lanny with interest; the third year he moved into new, sunny, roomy and beautifully furnished offices, with a waiting room as large as all of his previous offices had been. He joined the best club in town; he joined a country club, and resolutely Lanny drove him out of the office on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons to play golf. She denied him the privilege of naming his own fees because she knew they would be too modest; she kept his free list to a minimum; knowing all his friends, she supervised his social duties; she kept his books and was a very devil of a collector; she wrote all his business letters and signed them for him; she invested his money for him, and since she was no mean psychologist, she could read a woman patient as she would a book. She was his Admirable Crichton, and he rewarded her with his confidence, his affectionate friendship and a perfectly dazzling salary raise each Christmas.

He always kissed her at six o'clock on the twenty-fourth day of December in each year for the five years preceding the late winter afternoon when Mr. Daniel McNamara called in behalf of the strangest patient Lanny's boy had ever been asked to accept.

It had been a long, hard day. Doctor Burt was tired, and a Mrs. Reginald Merton, who was rich and idle, not very intelligent and hence neurothemic, had been fatiguing him with a recital of her imaginary aches, pains and megrims.

He pressed a button under the desk, tapping out a code message to Lanny, and waited patiently.

He knew she would appear momentarily and say: "I'm sorry Doctor Burt, but Professor Finnegan has just telephoned that you are fifteen minutes late to your engagement to meet the great German savant, Herr Doktor Uffitz."

He waited three minutes and sent another code message to Lanny, adding the word "Help!" Still Lanny did not appear, so he said with his disarming smile: "Mrs. Merton, the five o'clock whistle has blown, and I can't listen to another word. I've just remembered a most pressing engagement, so now if you do not go at once I shall have to throw you out."

He had her by the arm and out the door before she could think of another symptom. Then he locked the door, put both legs up on the desk and loaded and lighted his pipe, just as the door to his nurse's office opened and Lanny said:

"I'm so sorry, but Professor Finnegan—"

"She's gone. Where did you go, leaving me here to suffer?"

"I was in the waiting room placating an insistent visitor. I told him you had gone for the day, but he flashed some sort of police badge at me, said he wasn't nutty and that his business was private."

"Whenever you admit a person whose business is private and personal I am called upon for mental and physical effort, sans a fee, Lanny. I'm tired."

"What you need, dearie," said Lanny, "is a nice, long, cool, highball."

"And while you're on the job, get me one, too," a deep voice spoke from the door behind her.

"It's that police person," Lanny cried.

"It is," the police person agreed without malice, "and even if I am a cop, I'm too smart to be fooled by the fibs of any woman. How are you, Doc?"

"Oh, Lanny, You Dear Old Sport. I Can't Do That!"

"Tired," he murmured. "Worn to a razor edge talking sanely to the insane and the semi-sane, the sub-normal and the abnormal. You appear sane, officer. Are you?"

"I'd be afraid to take a bet I am, Doc. I handle my share o' nuts, too, and there's times they make me think I'm bugs instead o' them. My name's Dan McNamara and I'm the chief of police."

"Sit down, Chief. Drag over that armchair." He smiled at Lanny and held up two fingers.

That smile melted her. It always did. For five years she had been trying to bully him, and his smile had always defeated her, for which reason she often had a brainstorm and threatened to resign his service. And she would have done it, too, for she was a forceful woman, only for the fear that he might replace her with a nurse who didn't understand him—a la-de-la young thing, half-baked professionally, who would fall in love with him and make him marry her. He was so kind and sympathetic Lanny knew he would marry her, just to keep her from feeling bad.

"D—n his sympathy," she growled, as she prepared the drinks in an inner room. "That's why he's worked to death. He'll die young—overwork—angina, the young fool! That big, fresh, heavy-footed cop! How dare he force his way in—the big bum! And getting a drink for his dirty work!"

She sniffed and served the highballs. "You're mighty sweet, Lanny," Doctor Burt told her. "Now, run along home."

Lanny did not go. She knew that big moocher of a chief of police would praise such old liquor and his host would offer him a second helping.

"I've got a girl down at Central station," Lanny McNamara was saying. "Shoplifting detail picked her up in a department store where she'd pinched a dozen and a half silk stockings. Petit larceny and caught with the goods. I sent a good man around to try to square the case with the department store people, but they insist on pressing charges and that's too bad because she's got a couple of priors against her. Out on probation—suspended sentence, you understand, Doc. And now she'll do two years in the Big House. 'S tough on the girl."

"What's your interest in her, if she's a confirmed thief?"

"Well, maybe she wouldn't be a thief if she'd had the breaks," he defended. "Somebody must have given her a sweet bust on the nose, because her beak's been broke and nothing's left of it but a saddle."

"Is she tough?"

"Is she tough? Doc, she's so tough I know it ain't natural. A girl as tough as her must be looney. But there ain't nothing tough about her eyes or her mouth—and that's where you can always find toughness that's been bred in the bone. There's something about this girl that's different. Doc, I don't know what it is but I know this much: she wasn't always tough. I want you to give her the once over."

"I understand there is a psychologist and psychiatrist—Doctor Blethen—who does all of the medico-legal work for the department, Chief. I wouldn't care to examine the girl except on his invitation."

"Yes, I know. Question of ethics, and while the question is being debated this girl gets hauled into court and takes the rap on the old charge of grand theft. I know Blethen. I've tried him and he says this girl is a natural hoodlum, and mentally and physically healthy. He says she's got more intelligence than any ten girls in Vassar. She must be smart, too, because she told him he was a fool, and I agree with her."

Doctor Burt was silent, for he was intensely ethical and would not criticize a fellow doctor. "I've heard a lot about you," the chief of police continued. "You're regarded as the best psychiatrist and neurologist in San Francisco. So don't talk to me about the capable Doc Blethen. I want you to look this girl over."

His huge face brightened as he summoned a thought that would bolster up his plea. "She don't cuss me, Doc. I've asked her all about herself, and I'm sure she tells me all she knows, but she don't know anything. She's bound to like you, Doc, and when she likes anybody—now, Doc, I've got a notion you can get her confidence to such an extent you can prong down into her soul and locate the trouble. I hear men like you do things like that nowadays."

Doctor Burt smiled. "Sometimes we uncover complexes or mental reflexes; frequently we do not. And when we have uncovered them we cannot always cure them. You say this girl has a ruined nose? Does it affect her appearance greatly?"

"She's ugly when you look at her the first time, Doc, but after you've talked with her and looked some more the shock sort of wears off. I got a notion that if her nose could be straightened up she'd be a goodlooking girl. And maybe if her mind could be straightened, she'd be a good girl."

"Know anything about her antecedents, her background?"

"I don't know and I can't find out. She won't tell me."

"It may be," Doctor Burt suggested, "that she doesn't know. Has Blethen finished with the case?"

"Yes, sir. He told me not to bother him about her no more."

Doctor Burt indicated his telephone. "Call him up, Chief, and ask him if he has any objection to having me give her an unofficial examination."

McNamara did so. Following a brief conversation, he turned the telephone over to Stephen.

Stephen took the telephone. "Doctor Blethen? Burt speaking. The chief came to my office about that girl he has at the central station. Notwithstanding your report he has asked me, as a personal favor to see the girl. You understand, however—"

"Yes, I understand. Burt, she's a bad lot."

"Something the chief said has mildly aroused my curiosity. If you would care to invite me to discuss her case—understand I have no desire to intrude—"

"I'm through with her, Burt. Help yourself, old man. However, take a tip from me and don't let that fellow McNamara sell himself to you. If you do he'll keep you busy. I doubt if any man on earth can run a criminal down as promptly as McNamara; he has a photographic brain and never forgets a face or a fact; but after he's landed a yegg in his cooler he develops an abnormal yearning to find out what made him act that way. Mac's a softy."

"Exactly. Thank you, Blethen. Still, a blind pig will sometimes find an acorn, and something he said—Good-by."

Lanny entered. "There's a young woman in the waiting room," she announced. "She said to me, 'Where the h—l's that bonehead of a chief gone?'" Lanny looked at Dan McNamara severely over the rims of her spectacles. "Friend of yours?" she queried wittingly.

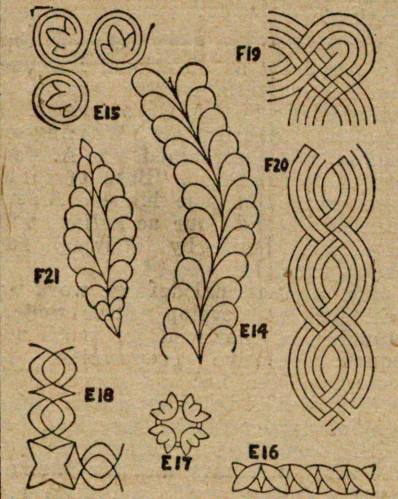

"Yes," McNamara admitted, "and Doc's new patient. Bring her in and he'll give her the once over."

But Lanny shook her head. "This nut shop is closed for the day," she told him. "Bring her around at one o'clock tomorrow. The doctor has a teen minutes then."

The "liquid test"

...it ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish spells or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.

The Voice of the American Legion

By The Tinley Park Post No. 615

No better praise could be given of the American Legion than was given, in an editorial which appeared in the Feb. 8th, edition of the Chicago Evening American, titled: THE LEGION DECLARES WAR IN BEHALF OF AMERICA.

We quote editorial as follows: THE LEGION DECLARES WAR IN BEHALF OF AMERICA

The most powerful and most active patriotic force in the United States today is the American Legion. It is dedicated to the creed of Americanism.

It wants peace with all countries, its members know the realities of war better than any professional "pacifist"—but it knows also that the price of peace is preparedness. Its program for the nation is founded on facts, not fancies.

It deserves the hundred per cent support of every sane and sensible citizen.

Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., national commander of the Legion, made a speech a few days ago that charts the course our government should steer, and must steer, if America's heritage is to be preserved.

Commander Belgrano said:

"Our land is filled with the propaganda of alien 'isms'. The agents of Communism preach their doctrine of destruction openly. They have invaded our schools and our churches. They are calling openly for a revolution to overthrow our government and set up the political slavery of Moscow.

"We of the Legion are mobilized to a man to combat that menace. We are calling to you—to every patriotic American—to join us in this war on the enemies of our Republic.

"If Europe wants its Communism, Hitlerism, Fascism or any other 'ism' let them have it. Here in America there is room only for Americanism."

And turning to the subject of our dangerously weak national defenses, Commander Belgrano continued:

"We demand:

"1. Immediate construction of every ship allowed us by the London treaty, and the men to man them.

"2. A standing army of sufficient strength to protect our shores, supported by a National Guard and trained citizen reserve sufficient to form the nucleus of a citizen army in time of war.

"3. An adequate air defense of our coasts and possessions."

In days when patriotism seems so often at a discount, the Legion looms up as a bulwark of liberty and security—"a great rock" in a land weary of quack experiments and crazy theorizing.

"Keep America American and keep it safe for its own people" is the sum total of what this mighty organization stands for.

The nation may well congratulate itself that such an organization exists—a million strong—to warn it of perils at home or abroad, and to safeguard it against the foes of its own household.

We members of the Tinley Park Post No. 615, want to commend the Chicago Evening American on the fight, it, as well as the rest of the Hearst publications, are carrying on toward driving Communism out of America.

All patriotic citizens should join the American Legion in its efforts to make America safe for Americans.

At the November meeting of the National Americanism Commission, Nebraska's C. C. Frazier related that in Chicago recently while buying a Sunday edition from a small newsboy who was loaded down with papers, he asked the youngster: "Don't all of those papers make you tired, young man?" "No, sirree," replied the boy. "I never read 'em."

Tinley Park Legion Aux. Unit
Mrs. Lester N. Stoltenberg,
Publicity Chairman

The last meeting of the Tinley Park Auxiliary Unit was held February 8, with nineteen members being present and our president, Mrs. Albert Felten in charge.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Francis Rowden and the committee chairmen gave their reports.

Mrs. M. West, rehabilitation, had planned a fruit shower for the evening, with each member contributing thereto which was given to the tubercular patients at Oak Forest. Mrs. West also reported on the R. O. T. C. sale which was held at the 4th district meeting and which was a huge success. The articles sold, were purchased from the various veteran hospitals and all articles were made by disabled war veterans.

Mrs. H. Frietag, Americanism chairman proposed to start a discussion group, which is part of the Americanism and National Defense program for the year. A date was set and all members interested in these discussion groups will meet at Mrs. Felten's home. The first meeting was held Wednesday February 20. Future dates of these meetings will be published in this paper from time to time.

Mrs. Mamie Brandau, Community Service, chairman, announced that the month of March was set aside for community work, and suggested something useful be donated to the Tinley Park school, and in response to that suggestion, the Unit decided on the donation of one year's subscription of "The Geographical Magazine" to the school library.

Mrs. Baldwin, who had charge of the buncos for the school benefit, gave her report on same.

Mrs. L. Winsor gave a very complete outline on the Cook County Council meeting, which she attended on February 8.

Because of Mrs. C. Gardner, the Junior Director, moving away, Mrs. Trudie Swisher was appointed in her place for the balance of the year.

The next regular meeting will be February 22, at which time the losing membership team will entertain.

Activities to promote more secure peace and more secure possession of the advantages of democracy will be emphasized by American Legion Auxiliary Units throughout the nation during February. Plans for the participation in the work by Tinley Park Unit are being made under the direction of Mrs. C. Winsor, national defense chairman, and Mrs. H. Frietag, chairman of Americanism.

"February has been chosen by the Auxiliary as 'National Defense and Americanism month' because it contains the birthdays of the two greatest Americans, Washington and Lincoln," explained Mrs. A. Felton, Unit President. "Both of these men exemplified the highest American ideals and our activities will pay them honor by striving for their principles.

"In our national defense work we will seek to develop better understanding of the need for more adequate defensive preparations to safeguard the nation's peace. We will endeavor to rally public opinion in support of the American Legion's demands for strengthening of the army and navy and the passage of a universal draft act. We are convinced that America's peace cannot be secure under present world conditions unless the country is adequately prepared for defense.

"The security of our democratic institutions is being seriously threatened by changed conditions and by growing radical movements. The Auxiliary's Americanism work aims to build up a type of citizenship able to operate a democracy under modern conditions—able to solve the country's problems without sacrifice of the freedom, justice and opportunity which democracy gives. Educational activities to promote a more thorough understanding of the American form of government, an increased appreciation of its advantages and greater loyalty to American ideals will be carried out."

TINLEY PARK JR. GARDEN CLUB

Our president, Irma Hick is at Ingalls Memorial Hospital, Harvey.

The Club wishes for a speedy recovery and hopes she will soon be home again.

At the Skat tournament held on Monday night at Louis Hermsmeyer's place the prize winners were: Walter (Mancke, Joe Hug and Christ Kohl.

Hearken and ye shall understand. Save your money and you can go south for a vacation in the middle of the winter. Many a lesson is taught by example. May our large Pal remember.

Well our old timer in the meat business has finally found one who won't listen to his arguments. After stalling him in the middle of a lake on the north side, poor August had to call on the women for help and old man Chrysler wouldn't budge. Better treat the old boy nice August. He might stall you in a place more difficult to tow you out of. Let this be a lesson to you.

Some time after we have climbed to the top of the cherry tree we find the finest ones were at the bottom. After seeing who got the finest Valentine in town we remember the old adage that folks must still be driving their cars.

Glad to see Mrs. C. Peck up and around again after being laid up for several days.

Somebody in Tinley is getting pretty swell receiving orchids for a Valentine. I wonder who? (Nellie Ann.)

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gonia had as their visitors the week end, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gonia of Norwood Park, Illinois.

George Schreiber visited in Chicago with his son Henry and family. Mr. Carl W. Hedler recently visited his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Hedler. Mr. Hedler lives at Stamford, Conn., and holds an important position with the Norm-Hoffman Bearings Mfg. Co., of that city, being in charge of their jobbing sales department covering the entire country with the exception of the Pacific coast. The family circle was enlarged by the presence of their daughter Mrs. Ruth Scholl of River Forest and her husband, Mr. A. Scholl and their son James.

Other visitors at the parsonage were Mrs. Ed. Heim of Blue Island and her daughter Mrs. Sadie Farmer; Mr. and Mrs. C. Froehke and Mrs. C. Jungnickel of Michigan City, Ind., and Mrs. Johanna Nieske of Chicago.

The Tinley PTA will meet Friday afternoon, March 1st. Everybody is invited to come out and help make the meeting interesting.

The Tinley R. N. A. has launched a six months attendance contest selecting as their captains Mrs. Ruth Bacon, purple side and Mrs. Margaret Gonia, white side. May the best side win. All R. N. A. members kindly co-operate and try to attend all meetings to help their side win.

Mrs. George Stellwagen has been taken to the Billings Memorial hospital for medical treatment.

Fred Goebel who recently underwent an appendicitis operation in the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, returned home Monday and is getting along nicely.

Irma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hick, who has been a patient in the Harvey hospital for the past week, is improving nicely.

I AM A MAN WITH A LITTLE HOUSE

I am a man with a little house
And a few yards of black loamy earth;
A home, a field and a poor man's blouse;
All that life is worth.

A place to work and a spot to rest,
Far from the noise and the foul turmoil,
And merry cries in the cozy nest
On the peaceful soil.

I love my cabin, its silent face,
Its lines, its roof and the whirling smoke,
In morning's mist or in evening's haze,
And its rainbow cloak.

I breathe the freedom of plain and ranch,
The clean, fresh scent that imbues the air,
The niquant smell of the crumbling

trench;
Doubly free and fair.

I know that I'm real, healthy, strong;
With heavy feet I press on the soil;
From it I came, to it I belong,
As a man of toil.

Forget all futile day dreams of gain;
Your heap of gold and your pile of greed.
Dirt is not mire and dirt does not stain;
It's the woods you need.

You may feel rich on one little lot;
Secure a crumb of the huge earth's crust,
Build you a home in a country spot,
You can... and you must.

No, No Cash Money
Won Their Reward
To Discourage Murder
No Surprise Possible

According to solemn agreement, made between "gallant allies," which the British call themselves and us, the United States should receive from Great Britain the sum of $300,000,000. Another considerable sum on account of "war debts of honor" is due from France. Will these amounts be paid to maintain, spotless, the honor of nations that borrowed in their troubles? They will not be paid. Nothing will be paid. Three hundred and sixty millions of dollars are more important than "spotless honor."

To the announcement that she would pay nothing Great Britain frankly adds that "it would be useless, and therefore unwise," even to attempt negotiations.

Little Finland, on the contrary, announces her intention to pay the installment. Napoleon called England "a nation of shopkeepers," which annoyed the English and was inaccurate. Shopkeepers make it a habit to pay their debts in order to keep their credit.

Two life convicts have earned freedom by submitting to medical experiment, with "tuberculosis vaccine," or "preventive." The "preventive" with which the doctors have experimented on Carl Ericson and Mike Schmidt for months past, is not a tuberculosis cure. It prevents those inoculated from contracting tuberculosis, as ordinary vaccination prevents contracting small-pox.

Doctors of the National Jewish hospital, who have worked on the new serum for 15 years past, warned the convicts that they would risk their lives in the experiment, now proved successful.

Both braved death in hope of possible recovery of liberty as the reward. They have won the reward.

On both sides of the Atlantic attempts are made to discourage murder. President Roosevelt takes the lead here, summoning all forces of the country—state, national and local—to fight private crime, banditry, traffic in narcotics, lynchings, kidnaping, plain ordinary murder.

Private crime worries us here.

Doctor Dafoe is in New York, first visit, and surprised reporters note that he shows no amazement when gazing on skyscrapers and canyon-like streets.

The reporters need not have been surprised. Doctor Dafoe is the man who introduced the five Dionne quintuplets to the world, and kept them alive, breaking all records, after they got here.

When you have ushered five little girls into the world, one after the other, you can no longer be surprised by a mere skyscraper.

Doctor Rosenbach, book specialist, thinks New York city needs a building devoted exclusively to the works of Shakespeare. It is a shame, says he, that "scholars have to go 8,000 miles to see a quarto of 'Hamlet.'" Fortunately, they can get a better Hamlet than that "quarto" in any good book store for one dollar.

To do justice to Shakespeare, you might have one building devoted entirely to books written about Hamlet, who never lived.

Rev. Joseph A. Davis, colored, sixty-five years old, very eloquent preacher, who operates a garage between Sundays, says he is the New York representative of Senator Huey Long's "share-the-wealth" idea and already has 10,000 members willing to help share the wealth in Harlem.

He's only waiting word from Senator Long to start in earnest. "Me and the senator will take this town like an epidemic," says he.

"Epidemic" is what the French would call le mot juste ("Just the right

All Eligible To Sign Contracts

Nearly, all producers of corn and hogs, regardless of whether they took part in the 1934 program, are eligible to sign a 1935 adjustment contract, according to O. G. Barrett, Farm Adviser.

Those eligible to sign include persons who own and operate their own farms, and tenants who operate farms on a cash-rent or fixed-share agreement, persons who operate farms being purchased by them for cash or for fixed commodity payments, and tenants who operate farms rented on a crop or stock share lease, or agreement.

Eligibility in all cases is determined by the county allotment committee, which acts in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture. The allotment committee determines whether the applicant for a 1935 contract is qualified to sign a contract and receive benefit payments.

There seems to be a mistaken idea with some that in the case of hogs, which requires a ten per cent reduction, that that ten per cent is in addition to the twenty-five per cent reduction of 1934. Such is not the case. The hog base is established by taking the average of the 1932 and 1933 production. Last year seventy-five per cent of that average was allowed. This year ninety per cent of that average is allowed.

Bird Migration

The reason why birds migrate is a mystery to biologists. They have been studying for hundreds of years to find out and are as much in the dark today as they were 200 years ago, according to Dr. Alexander Wetmore, president of the American Ornithological union.

GIVES TELEPHONE NUMBERS OF STATE'S LAW OFFICERS

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company publishes an annual police telephone directory which contains the residence and office telephone numbers of law enforcement officials throughout the state. The directory is designed primarily as a telephone reference list for use of the authorities in getting in quick touch with each other at any hour of the day or night.

The directory contains three sections, the first of which lists the location of the commander in charge, and telephone number, of all state police detachments. The second contains an alphabetical list of Michigan's eighty-three counties, the names of the sheriffs and their home and office telephone numbers. The third section lists cities and villages alphabetically, gives the names of the police chiefs and their residence and office telephone numbers.

GENERAL'S SON TALKS WITH FATHER'S FOE BY RADIO

Thirty years ago General Douglas MacArthur was commander of United States armed forces in the Philippines, which were fighting to subdue a band of Philippines led by General Emilio Aguinaldo.

A few months ago General MacArthur's son, also a general and now Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army, talked from Washington with this same General Aguinaldo in Manila over a 10,000 mile radio and wire telephone circuit. The conversation was held as part of the ceremonies incident to the opening of radio telephone service across the Pacific.

MOVE INTO NEW HOME, FIND GIFT TELEPHONE WORKING

When Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moore moved into their new home at Laconia, N. H., recently, they were tendered a house warming by relatives and friends. Among the gifts to the couple was a telephone, which had already been installed and was ready for work, a present from Mrs. Moore's mother.

Facts About the Telephone

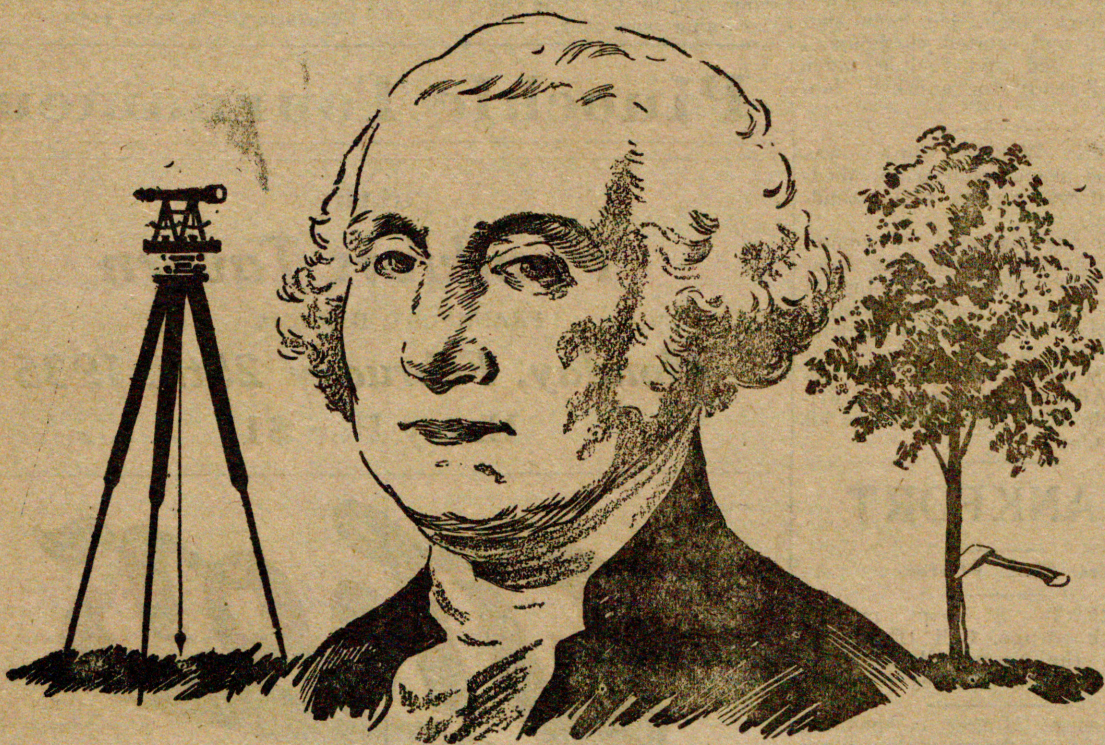

The Bell System now has in service more than 300,000 public telephones.

A new dial telephone exchange is soon to be constructed in Jerusalem, Palestine.

There are only four countries having more than 100,000 telephones that cannot be reached by commercial telephone service from the United States. These are New Zealand, Japan, China and Russia.

About one out of every six stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company is an employee of the Bell System. Of these employee stockholders about 35% have owned stock for five years or more.

Buy across the Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay! You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you! And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

ORLAND PARK

ENTERTAINS WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Harold Kinney entertained the members of the Orland Park Woman's club in her home last Friday Feb. 15th at a silver luncheon at 12:30 p. m. It was given for the purpose to raise money for the club to finish their project on beautifying the village garden plot.

The luncheon consisted of molded macaroni with mushroom sauce, mint-pineapple gelatine salad, rolls, pickles, olives, orange marmalade, apple desert with whipped cream and coffee. Twenty members were present.

During the social hours in the afternoon, Mrs. Edgar Graves played an "Etude" on the piano in her delightful and accomplished way.

Mrs. Kinney who was assisted by her daughter, proved to be a most gracious hostess at this happy gathering of friends.

PTA CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Even tho a heavy fog enveloped the village of Orland Park last Thursday night it did not dampen the spirit of the members of the Orland PTA and their friends, for that was the night the celebration of Founders night and the seventh year of the local organization was to take place.

At the appointed hour in the school auditorium the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Sherman Knox and all joined in singing "Smiles" to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Adele Cooper. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved which showed a membership of 49 and during the evening the 50th member was received by Mrs. H. C. Melchor being enrolled as a member.

Mr. Sherman Knox prepared by going thru the records for the past seven years, a splendid history of the organization which he read and which showed a very active and energetic membership which knew the meaning of the word "Co-operation." Mr. Knox read the list of accomplishments of the PTA during its seven years of existence as published last week. Mr. Knox closed his history with the following verse: "Coming together is a beginning, Keeping together is progress, Thinking together is unity, Working together is progress."

Guests of the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Heiman and Mrs. Wm. Semmler, all of Mokena. Mr. Heiman, as president of the Mokena PTA spoke to the gathering and complimented them on their wonderful achievements and spoke of the work of the PTA in general. He also extended an invitation to visit the Mokena organization when they celebrated Dads night Tuesday evening of this week.

Mrs. Semmler, in a few words, congratulated the members in their work and hoped they would have many more years of opportunity to show forth more endeavors.

Mrs. Knox read a message from the PTA Bulletin on "Founder's Day."

In the front of the room on a small table, spread with a white and green linen cover, were placed two beautiful cakes. One, in two large tiers, with one large candle on it, was lit by Mr. Heiman in memory and in honor of Founders Day and another large angel food cake with seven candles surrounding it, were lit by the past presidents, namely: Mrs. Adele Cooper, two candles, designating the two years she served as president; likewise, Mrs. Geo. Cox and Mrs. Louis Arnold, then Mrs. Knox the present president lit one, as she is just entering upon her second year as president. Each spoke appropriately as they lit the candles.

Thus ended the business session and Mrs. Adele Cooper took charge of the evening, which was replete with splendid games, into which everyone present entered and enjoyed very much. It being near Valentine Day, many games were in keeping with the day. Especially was the picture taking game enjoyed and no one fully realized how beautiful they were until they had their picture taken that evening by photographer, Merle Cooper.

Refreshments of coffee and cake were served and when the departing time came, to the joy of all, the fog had disappeared. Probably the warmth of friendship as given out at the meeting had a great deal to do with that.

Charles Hahenlein is the proud owner of one of the popular new Ford cars.

Miss Hazel Schmadeke is on a nursing case in a private home in Oak Forest.

The Orland Park Post of the American Legion will meet next Tuesday evening. The Post is planning to sponsor another dance in the near future.

Sherman Knox, Earl Reisch and Mrs. Adele Cooper represented the Orland Park PTA at the Mokena PTA Dad's Night program Tuesday evening of this week.

ORLAND PARK SCHOOL NEWS

The following composition was written by Muriel Morlock of the fourth grade:

Living in Africa

I live in Africa. We have a lot of fun here. Last week we went on a leopard hunt. First we got all dressed up funny. Then we danced and danced all day and night. At day break we were all tired out but we started any how. We walked, and walked until we got to a place where there were a lot of trees. I suddenly stopped for I had seen two gleaming eyes staring at me. I yelled and the men stopped to ask me what was the matter. But before I could answer, the leopard leaped from his hiding place and jumped on me. He knocked me down but I was not hurt much. The men shot the leopard and carried me home. I am still in bed and feeling much better and ready for another leopard hunt.

The Child Welfare Clinic was held at the school auditorium Wednesday but was not as well attended as usual.

It seems the ingenuity of woman knows no bounds which was demonstrated last Thursday evening at the PTA when a woman's slipper took the place of a hammer in driving a nail into a table.

Mrs. Ella Loebe and son Roy motored to Allagan, Michigan last Friday to help her father celebrate his 88th birthday.

Mokena Defeats

Tinley Team

Tinley Park got beat three times Tuesday. It seems as tho the boys all brought their towels and their onions because they sure did cry. Everytime the whistle blew the entire Tinley team ran to the "ref" wanting to know all about the fouls. The crying didn't do much good because they lost every game. The next time the boys play Tinley they intend to have all facilities possible for the team in the event of necessity.

Muehler and Jungles took the honors in the girls game with 4 buckets apiece. Clyde was plenty hot in the lights game scoring 13 points. Ed. Walsh was very sizzling hot, scoring 15 of the 42 points. Cappel was second scoring 13 points. Good bye plez.

News Brevities of Illinois

The senate confirmed the appointment of E. E. Irwin of Salem as manager of the Illinois state fair, succeeding the late Edward C. Collins of Prentice.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Holloway, West Frankfort, parents of Don Holloway, four, who died recently after drinking a pint of whisky he found on the floor, were ordered held by the coroner's jury, following an inquest.

Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, complained about getting too much money from applicants for 1935 automobile license plates. He said: "Today we received overpayments from more than 750 applicants. In each instance the car owner sent us 50 cents for a new certificate of title."

From now on, the five-year-old twin daughters of William Bortkiewicz of Joliet will be spanked with more confidence. He took the two to the police station and said: "I want to be fair, but I can't tell these girls apart. I'm likely to spank Dorothy for what Dolores does or vice versa. So I want them fingerprinted." The police obliged.

A Chicago, Burlington and Quincy freight train was bombed south of Waltonville and three empty cars blown off the track. Otis Atchison, brakeman, of Centuria, was slightly injured. The bombing occurred near the scene of several other recent train bombings on the same railroad line. All were believed by authorities to have been the result of factional coal mine strife.

Illinois acquired title to the old Logan county courthouse at Mount Pulaski, one of the few remaining buildings in which Abraham Lincoln practiced law. Like the reconstructed village of New Salem and other Lincoln shrines, it will be kept in original appearance and furnishings. The Salem State park was presented to Illinois by William Randolph Hearst.

Henry Flower, Pekin cab driver, lost his cab to a gunman who forced him to drive to Springfield. But he was allowed to keep his last dollar. "Keep the money, I'm broke but you need it worse than I do," the gunman said as he forced Flower from the cab and declared he was going on to St. Louis. Flower hiked two miles into Springfield and reported the theft.

Approval of a contract for a road improvement project in Gallatin county was announced by the state department of public works and buildings, division of highways. Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, described the project as 1.0150 miles of 12-foot treated bituminous surface course in section 5G-MFT near Shawneetown. The contract was awarded to Barrett & McCoy, Equality, Ill., and the cost is to be $5,255.82.

Reopening of the Great Lakes naval station will be urged upon congress by the Chicago Association of Commerce as an important aid in the administration's announced plan to build the navy up to treaty strength. It is understood that United States Senators Lewis and Dieferich, as well as the entire Illinois congressional delegation, will support the demand.

Motor fuel revenue collected by the state for the month of January totaled $2,148,127.35, according to a report to Gov. Henry Horner from K. L. Ames, Jr., director of finance, state of Illinois. This figure was $820,611.97 under the amount received for the preceding month and $67,339.95 less than for January, 1934. During the twelve months ending January 31, last, motor fuel collections reached $30,777,524.98, an increase of $1,656,715.07 over the total receipts for the preceding year.

A total of $7,658,915.06 was collected by the liquor revenue division of the state department of finance for the twelve months ending January 31, according to a report submitted to Gov. Henry Horner by K. L. Ames, Jr., director of finance, state of Illinois. January receipts amounted to $462,685.88. Of the annual revenue, sales of revenue stamps and taxes paid on a gallonage basis totaled $6,156,481.80 and license fees accounted for $1,502,433.26, Director Ames said. Beer produced $2,428,005.60 and alcohol and spirits, $3,535,487.19. The remainder was received from wines of more and less than 14 per cent alcoholic content.

Revenue totaling $3,945,378.04 was collected by the Retailers' occupational tax division of the state department of finance for the month of January, it was announced by K. L. Ames, Jr., director of finance, state of Illinois. This amount was $422,388.06 in excess of the $3,522,989.98 collected for January, 1934. More returns were filed and accounts paid in January, 1935, for the current month of December and prior months, than any month since the enactment of the retailers' occupational tax, Director Ames stated. The number of returns exceeded 130,000 and there were 2,523 new taxpayers added to the books. Of the January revenue, Director Ames said, approximately $227,987.11 represented collection of taxes, penalties and interest on accounts for prior months.

Henry Andrus, ninety, a member of the Illinois state legislature for sixteen years, is dead at his home at Rockford. He was elected as representative from the Tenth district in 1896 and 1898, and served three terms as state senator, in 1900, 1908 and 1912.

Harold William Collins, eighteen years old, confessed killer of his infant son, was held to the grand jury for manslaughter by a coroner's jury in Chicago. The youthful father told the police he inadvertently strangled the twenty-six-day-old baby after its crying had hampered his sleep for weeks.

Place Statue in Ice Jam as Villagers Pray

ALL types of boats, in the way of the St. Lawrence river ice jam, were crushed and rendered useless, as shown here. Father Bourget of the Roman Catholic church at Hogansburg, N. Y., ordered the statue of St. Peter taken out of the church and placed between the ice jam and the Indian village of St. Regis, while the villagers gave prayers of thankfulness that the river was receding. The inset shows a picture of the statue of St. Peter.

PETER DISCOVERS SPOOKY

PETER RABBIT had been startled by a voice as he was passing a certain big apple tree in the Old Orchard. The voice had seemed to come from that big apple tree. Peter stopped short and stared up through the branches of the tree. Look as he would he couldn't see anybody. There wasn't a leaf on that tree and he could see all through it. Peter blinked, felt foolish, very foolish indeed. He knew that had there been anyone sitting on one of those branches he couldn't have helped seeing them.

"You Haven't Told Me Yet Why You Look So Unhappy, Peter," Said Spooky.

"Don't look so high, Peter. Don't look so high," said the voice with a chuckle. This time it sounded as if it came right out of the trunk of the tree. Peter stared at the trunk, then suddenly laughed right out. Just a few feet above the ground was a good-sized hole in the tree, and poking his head out of it was a funny little fellow with big eyes and a hooked beak.

"You certainly did fool me that time, Spooky," cried Peter. "I ought to have recognized your voice, but I didn't."

Spooky the Screech Owl, for that is who it was, came out of the hole in the tree, and without a sound from his wings flew over and perched just above Peter's head. He was a little fellow, not more than eight inches high, but there was no mistaking the family to which he belonged. In fact he looked very much like a small copy of Hooty the Great Horned Owl, so much so that Peter felt a little cold shiver run over him, although he had nothing in the world to fear from Spooky. His head seemed to be almost as big around as his body, and he seemed to have no neck at all. He was dressed in bright reddish brown with little streaks and bars of black. Underneath he was whitish with little streaks of black and brown. On each side of his head was a tuft of feathers. They look like ears, and some people think they are ears, which is a mistake. His eyes were round and yellow with a fierce hungry look in them. His bill was small and almost hidden among the feathers of his face, but it was hooked just like the bill of Hooty.

As Spooky settled himself he turned his head till he could look squarely behind him, then brought it back again so quickly that to Peter it looked as if it had gone clear around. You see, Spooky's eyes are fixed in their sockets, and he cannot move them from side to side. He has to turn his whole head in order to see to one side or the other.

"You haven't told me yet why you look so unhappy, Peter," said Spooky.

QUESTION BOX by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I was to a vaudeville show last night. In one of these acts a fellow with a terrible voice sang a song. Although he sang it badly the melody still haunts me. How do you account for that?

Sincerely,

K. OTTICK.

Answer: That is easily explained. The reason the melody haunts you is because the singer was so bad he probably murdered the song.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a man forty-five years of age. I am single. I do not chew, smoke, drink, swear, dance or gamble. Do you think I will live to be ninety years of age?

Yours truly,

A. MARVEL.

Answer: You probably will. But, if you don't do any of the things you mention, why do you want to live forty-five years longer?

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I arrived in a small town, one day last week, and I had a heavy grip. I saw a tramp at the station and thought I would have him carry my bag for me. I asked him if he wanted to make a quarter. He said "no" and walked away from me. How do you account for that?

Yours truly,

SAULES MAN.

Answer: He probably had a quarter. Dear Mr. Wynn: I was in New York last week and saw a lot of plays. Why do the managers produce plays which are so "raw"?

Yours truly,

Q. PONN.

Answer: The managers know the newspapers will "roast" them.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I smoke 60 to 70 cigarettes a day and my doctor says this habit will affect my brains. Do you agree with him?

Yours truly,

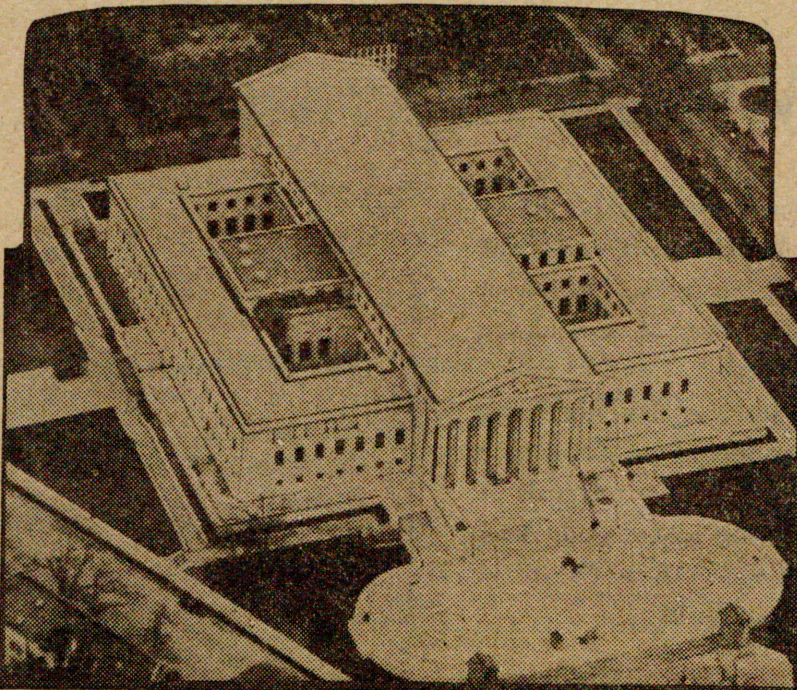

SIG ARR.

Answer: No! If you had any brains you wouldn't smoke 70 cigarettes a day.

COOKING WITH COCONUT

NOW that the fresh coconuts are in the market it is the time to use some of the good recipes that are being worked out by industrious housewives.

To prepare the coconut pierce the eyes with an ice pick and let the milk drain into a cup. Now place the coconut in the oven for a few minutes to become hot, then crack it and the meat will come out nicely without sticking to the shell.

Orange Coconut Creams.

Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of coconut milk and one-fourth cupful of water. Boil to the soft ball stage, 236 degrees Fahrenheit, stirring only when necessary. Cool and beat like chocolate fudge. Add flavoring, using two teaspoonfuls of orange juice and one-half teaspoonful of grated peel; mix well with two cupfuls of freshly grated coconut. Mold with the hands, taking a tablespoonful at a time. Roll in coconut and set aside to harden. This recipe yields about one and one-half pounds.

Fresh Coconut Candy.

Take one cupful of coconut milk, add three cupfuls of sugar and put on to boil; cook ten minutes after the boiling begins, then add all of the grated coconut and cook five minutes longer. Beat until it is cold, pour out into greased baking sheets and cut into squares.

Coconut Cookies.

Take one cupful of fresh coconut, add to two-thirds of a cupful of butter and one and one-third cupfuls of sugar creamed, add two beaten eggs, one-half cupful of chopped raisins and sift together one and one-half cupfuls of flour with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg and one-half teaspoonful of cloves. Add the dry ingredients alternately with one-fourth cupful of coconut milk.

TRUE GHOST STORIES

By CONNIE MACK
Baseball Manager.

CONNIE MACK as he sat in his office with its many windows, through which streamed sunshine and light, did not seem to be a figure about which the eerie could hover. Robust for his years, his face ruddy from outdoor life, he seemed rather a tall tower which pointed to things as definite as north, south, east and west. Yet he had a strange tale to relate about a visual prophetic omen.

"In the fourth game of the World series in 1920, the Philadelphia Athletics played the Chicago Cubs on a Saturday at Shibe park in Philadelphia," he began.

"In the last half of the seventh inning the score was 8-0, in favor of our opponents.

"I dreaded not only the impending loss of the game, but also the trip to Chicago, which would have to be made if we lost. The picture of the train already made up flashed across my mind. The train seemed to be coming toward me. The image was vivid and portentous.

"Simultaneously, with the flash of the picture, Simmons came up to bat. The game changed in our favor in the last half of the seventh inning. He hit a home run. Then Foxx batted, and they went right down the line until they came to the pitcher. The pitcher was replaced by a pinch-hitter.

"Then we started at the top of our batting order. When it came to the seventh batter, Jimmy Dykes, the score was a tie. The bases were filled. Jimmy made a two-base hit, driving in two runs, leaving two men on bases.

"Boley, the eighth batter, struck out for the second out. Then came the pinch-hitter, and he also struck out, making the third out. The score was 10-8 in our favor. We had won the game.

"In the fifth game excitement was widespread. President Hoover was there. In the first half of the ninth inning the score was 2-0, in favor of our opponents, the Cubs.

"As defeat faced me, the image of the train already made up again flashed through my brain the same as it had the day before. I gave myself time to think. Might the image of that train be an omen and might there follow events similar to yesterday's game? Was there something psychic in that image?

"Strangely, and simultaneously, with that image the game turned in our favor. Bishop lined a hit over third base; Haas hit the second ball pitched for a home run which tied the score.

"After Cochrane went out for the second out, Simmons made a two-base hit. Foxx was walked purposely. Then Miller hit a two-base hit, driving in the winning run, and we had won the ball game, 3-2."

By SOPHIE KERR
Authoress.

"THE only time I ever felt anything psychic was at The Hague," stated Sophie Kerr, the authoress. "Most of the time I am very matter-of-fact," she continued.

"One day while I was sight-seeing at The Hague I was guided into several buildings. My guide did not tell me where I was going or where I was until I had looked about me, and until I had been moved by the atmosphere of the different buildings.

"When I entered one building I exclaimed, 'I don't like this place. I have the sense of unspoken horrors being committed in this place.'

"There was nothing in the room to tell me where I was, but if ever I could feel the unspoken story of past events I felt it then. I was oppressed by a sense of unknown horrors. I felt the agony of horror upon horror. Radio-like waves with messages must have come to me.

"For, after a few minutes, the guide said, in a dull unemotional monotone, 'This is the Museum of Torture at The Hague. This is the empty room where condemned prisoners spent their last hour before their death. In the other parts of the building you will find a collection of all the instruments used to torture prisoners in former times.'

Phenomenon on Lakes

A peculiar phenomenon which occurs on the lakes of Switzerland is the seiche, a rise and fall in the mean level of the water caused by changes in the atmospheric pressure, writes F. M. Hartley, Jr., New York city, in Collier's Weekly. On the Lake of Geneva, which is 223 square miles in area, the level frequently rises on one side and falls on the other from one to six feet, and the resulting fluctuations cause the whole lake to swing from shore to shore for a period of from 35 to 72 minutes.

The Dachshund Pup

In choosing a Dachshund pup one well known authority states that the prospective purchaser should insist that the animal possesses a long, level head, rather low set ears, long body with well-arched loins, deep chest, big bone and short legs, the natural crook in which must show no signs of "knuckling over" forward since that spells unsoundness.

PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-10; 4:3-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.—Acts 3:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Healed a Lame Man.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Carrying on Jesus' Work.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Helping Hand.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Gifts That Are Better Than Money.

In the teaching of this lesson it will be necessary to include all the material in Acts 3:1 to 4:31.

I. Peter Healing the Lame Man (Acts 3:1-10).

1. The place (vv. 1, 2). It was at the gate called Beautiful, which leads from the outer to the inner court of the temple.

2. The man (v. 2). This beggar was infirm from his birth. When he saw Peter and John, he asked alms.

3. The method (vv. 3-8).

a. Gaining the man's attention (v. 4). Peter and John commanded him to look on them, but not because they had any power within themselves.

b. Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise and walk (v. 6). He had been unable to do this all his life, but with the command went the ability to do.

c. Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7). This act was meant to give impetus to his faith, not strength to his ankles.

4. The man's response (v. 8). Strength came into his feet and ankle bones at once. He stood, he walked, he leaped, and praised God.

5. The effect (vv. 9-11). The people were filled with amazement.

a. This helpless beggar had to be carried to the temple gate. Men and women out of Christ are so helpless that they need to be brought where the life of God can be applied to them.

b. Peter, in taking the man by the hand, shows the manner of helping the lost. While ministers and Sunday school teachers of themselves have nothing to give to the lost, they have the dispensing of the gospel of Christ.

II. Peter Witnessing Before the Multitude (3:12-26).

He told them it was faith in Jesus Christ, whom God had glorified and whom they had deliberately betrayed and crucified, that had healed this man. Despite their awful guilt, he appealed to them to repent (v. 19). God would pardon them if they would repent, and refreshing seasons would come to them when God should send back Jesus Christ to the earth to consummate the work of redemption.

III. Peter in Prison for Christ's Sake (4:1-4).

1. The leaders in this persecution (vv. 1, 2). Both priests and Sadducees joined in this wickedness. The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their functions. The Sadducees joined the priests because they did not believe in the resurrection, which was a vital part of the apostolic teaching.

2. The result (vv. 3, 4). Peter and John were arrested and imprisoned. Though the witnesses were held in bondage by chains, Christ was not bound. The number of believers had greatly increased, so that there were now about five thousand.

IV. Peter Witnessing Before the Sanhedrin (4:5-22).

1. The inquiry (vv. 5-7). They inquired as to by what power and name they had wrought this miracle.

2. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12). With stinging sarcasm he showed them that they were not on trial as elders, but for doing good to the helpless and needy man. Since they could not deny the miracle, he boldly declared that it had been done in the name of Christ, and that the only way for them to escape God's judgment was to believe on his name.

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-22).

a. They marveled (vv. 1-13). They were made conscious that they were on trial instead of sitting as judges upon Peter and John.

b. They took knowledge that Peter and John had been with Jesus (v. 13).

c. They forbade them to speak in Christ's name (v. 18).

d. Peter and John expressed their determination to obey God rather than man (vv. 19, 20).

e. Their release (v. 21). Seeing that the people were on the side of the apostles they had no way to punish them.

V. The Church at Prayer (vv. 23-31). They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak the Word of God.

Religion

Religion should be to every man not merely a creed, but an experience; not a restraint, but an inspiration; not an insurance for the next world, but also a program for the present world.—Stalker.

Peace of God

We need the peace of God in our heart just as really for the doing well of the little things in our secular life as for the doing of the greatest duties of Christ's kingdom.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It begins to appear that the Roosevelt administration has returned from its excursion into foreign ports and is now ready to engage in rehabilitation of domestic affairs to the exclusion of international problems, except the matter of reciprocal treaties. It is true that Secretary Hull of the Department of State, Secretary Roper of the Department of Commerce, and Senator Borah, in the senate, have talked about foreign affairs in one way or another, but none of them occasioned any observation or suggestions from the White House by their assertions.

Home Affairs to the Fore

Among the occurrences in the recent period that tend to show how the administration again is putting home affairs to the forefront are the new banking bill, the plans for recovery revival under the five billion dollar public works bill, and the determination of house and senate lately, under a White House spur, to clip the wings of, if not wholly eradicate, the so-called holding companies. Attention might be called also to the uprising in the Department of Agriculture where Secretary Wallace, and Agricultural Adjustment Administrator Chester Davis combined a few days ago to eliminate letting members of their respective staffs. They did it summarily, but the end is not yet, either as respects plans of Messrs. Wallace and Davis, or the yelps that may be expected from the radicals who were ousted.

The general information is that, in shelving foreign matters, Mr. Roosevelt has determined to lay aside the St. Lawrence waterway controversy until "pressing domestic matters" are disposed of. Almost in the same breath it can be said that new activity has been disclosed on the part of the New Dealers to spread their doctrine into the states and establish, if possible, uniform laws everywhere concerning privately owned utilities such as electricity and gas. While no one will say so, it is the understanding that considerable pressure is being placed behind the effort to get state legislatures to pass uniform public utilities bills, measures which have been drafted in the Public Works administration here.

New Banking Bill

Probably as important as any legislation that has gone to congress in recent months is the new banking bill, it was transmitted to congress in a most unspectacular manner. There was no out-and-out endorsement by the White House, nor was the sponsoring of the draft made clear. The legislation was dropped into the house hopper the day after Representative Steagall, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, had given out his own summarization. Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee on banking and currency received the bill the same day as Mr. Steagall and immediately went into a huddle with himself behind closed doors to study the draft. Later he announced with apparent pleasure that it was a great piece of legislation.

Now that the bill has been printed and is available for public inspection, a perfect furor has been aroused. The conservative critics began to squawk immediately that the measure proposes to destroy the Federal Reserve system and concentrate on power of credit and currency expansion or contraction. In the hands of a small group in the Treasury they contend that this amounts to establishment of a central bank and that, under our political system, a central bank would mean an unstable currency. What more could there be then, they ask, to destroy confidence in the currency which we use?

New Dealers, in defense of this new banking legislation, have been given to making wise-cracks about the Old Dealers, who, they assert, desire to see conditions of 1928 and 1929 repeated. They cite, with some justification it seems to me, that central banks exist in most of the major countries of the world and that their service has not been a bad thing at all. Further, the New Dealers argue that the political capital of the United States is in Washington, and the financial capital has been in New York. Why, they ask, should there be such a division?

In between these two schools of thought are sound money advocates and courageous conservatives who take the position that the bill has many good qualities and that it likewise has many provisions definitely to be avoided. You have heard very little expression of opinion from this type because, it is apparent, they are giving the measure close study. They will be heard from later when the legislation is taken up by the respective committees of the house and senate and it is made to appear that some changes surely will result.

To summarize the banking legislation—and I think it is of paramount interest to every one because it touches the currency and credit

Centralized Control

so directly—the real end likely to result from the legislation is a centralized control in Washington of the very nerve center of business, money. The bill proposes to establish what is called an open market committee in Washington and to include as members of this committee three members of the Federal Reserve board. The two remaining members would come from Federal Reserve banks. From this it is seen that the Reserve board becomes the dominant body. It takes no stretch of the imagination to recognize the possibilities. Members of the Reserve board, while they are appointed for a term of ten years, sometimes resign or die off. It immediately becomes possible, therefore, to make the Federal Reserve board a purely political body dominated by the President of the United States.

The function of the open market committee, as proposed in the bill, is to order the purchase or sale of government securities in the open market. If these securities are bought, the Reserve banks issue currency for them and they increase the amount of money in circulation, thereby easing credit. If the banks sell bonds which they have in their portfolios, the currency paid for those bonds obviously is taken out of circulation and that action results in a contraction or reduction of the amount of credit available.

If, for example, the occupant of the White House at any time happens to be an out-and-out inflationist, it is easy to see how government bonds can be absorbed by the Reserve banks and new currency put in circulation in whatever volume the administration policies require.

Another phase of the bill would allow national banks and state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve system to make loans on real estate for a twenty-year term. Five years is the present limitation. One has only to go back for an examination of causes of hundreds of bank failures in recent years to discover that the five-year limitation probably increased the mortality among otherwise sound banks to a greater extent than any other factor. In other words, to grant a bank the privilege of making a loan for twenty years means that such a bank ties up an equal amount of depositor's money in a place from which it cannot be suddenly recalled if the depositors take a sudden notion to withdraw substantial sums from that bank.

Worthy of Examination

There is another section of the measure which I think is worthy of close examination. It proposes to combine the jobs of governor and agent, and that the bank policies should be executed by the governor who is selected by the bank board of directors.

This provided something of a dual control, a check and balance on the exercise of power. Now, however, the effort is to be made to combine the jobs and make the head of the bank a strictly government representative.

That course naturally is in line with the Roosevelt program of extending and expanding federal authority. The President has constantly increased the scope of power and influence exercised from Washington. The current offering is accepted everywhere as bringing under federal domination completely the banking system of this nation. It does so because none can deny that the Federal Reserve banks hold a club over the heads of private bankers wherever they may be.

So I believe it is a fair statement to say that Mr. Roosevelt, or those who are responsible to him, is reaching out to amplify the control of credit from Washington which was initiated through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, and other leading agencies. The Federal Reserve system was set up, according to the debate on the measure in congress at that time, to decentralize credit control and break the grip which New York exercised over the volume of credit. Now, apparently, it is all coming back to Washington, probably to be exercised by politicians instead of men with banking training.

In connection with the administration's attention to domestic affairs and the consequent legislative changes, attention might well be centered on the meaning of some of the moves. One Washington observer wrote in his newspaper the other day that the administration was renewing its notes at the bank. What he referred to was the extension of life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the pumping of more blood into the veins of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Something similar has occurred with respect to the Reconstruction Finance corporation which has been given new life and about $350,000,000 in new money by an act of congress.

Then, President Roosevelt has asked for renewal of the life of the National Recovery administration and for re-enactment of the National Industrial Recovery act, both of which expire next June 16.

As a result of these maneuvers a good many observers are of the opinion that the recovery efforts have not been as successful as their optimistic sponsors had predicted a year ago. Renewal of these stop-gap agencies, extension of power here and there, and the initiation of new experiments are given as reasons for the belief that uncertainty exists and satisfactory progress toward recovery is still more apparent than real.

May Yet Find "Missing Link" in Congo Forests

How would you like to meet an ape with red hair? There is a tradition that such an animal exists in the forests of the Congo, and that it is larger and stronger than the gorilla, but also in some respects more like men. It stands erect and walks like a man—not only occasionally, but always—and its intelligence is nearer to man's than the ape's.

Before we dismiss this story of the red-haired ape as a fantasy we must remember that a great part of the Congo forest is still unknown and unexplored, and that at first many people were sceptical about the existence of the gorilla.

And there is a very circumstantial story of how a red-haired ape was killed by pigmies some twenty years ago. The body was seen by a district official, but when he returned, an hour or so later, to collect the skin, it had been burned by a missionary, who had strongly disapproved of the Darwinian theory, and feared that the discovery of this new species might help to confirm it.

Perhaps a new expedition will find another specimen. That many creatures as yet unknown to science do exist in these mysterious forests is accepted by those who know Africa best.—London Answers.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot... "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this; in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Scientists Find Fast Way to Relieve a Cold

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

NOTE "DIRECTIONS PICTURES"

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

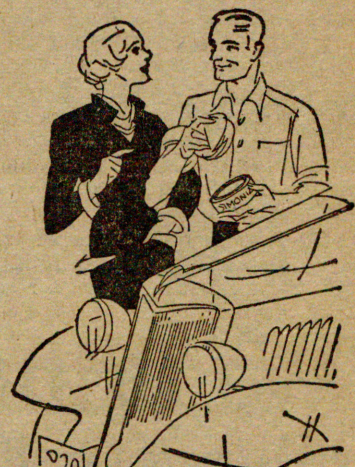

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

at this section and was hit by a car coming in the opposite direction.
No injuries are reported, altho both

The Orland Park Royal Neighbors held their regular bi-monthly meeting in Cree's hall Thursday afternoon, Feb. 14 with the newly installed officers in their respective places.

Plans were discussed for a celebration to be held in March in honor of the birthday anniversary of the order, details of which will be announced in the next issue.

On Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, the Royal Neighbors assembled at the home of Katherine Cox for an enjoyable social evening. Bunco was played and the prizes were numerous and excellent. The array of refreshments left nothing to be desired and the evening was voted a huge success by everyone present.

Friends and relatives helped Mr.
John Cree celebrate his 80th birthday last Saturday evening in the Cree hall. There were twenty-four guests present. Bunco and cards were played and refreshments were served. Well wishes were extended to the honored guests for many

German Movie Coming to Tinley

Service or Exploitation

The fundamental purpose of a retail business is to furnish a service to the public in the distribution of the public necessities. This service is very essential to the public welfare. For this service the business is entitled to legitimate profit.

The profit pays wages, rent, light, heat and many other required overhead expenses. The upkeep of the retail business overhead, keeps moving the wheel of progress for employees, property owners, utilities, coal industries and many other business establishments, so necessary for the

The purchase of manufactured goods, AT A PROFIT, produces smoke in the factory chimney and creates jobs for all.

So the retail business has its place and does fit into the economic setup of our social order. Isn't it logical, that the greater the number of retail establishments, the more people effected and the greater our prosperity?

No matter what your business or work may be, you have your place in this economic picture. Your earning power, directly or indirectly, depends upon the successful operation of retail business.

The monopolization of retail business has a destructive bearing upon your earning power. The chain store system of retail business, backed by powerful financial interests, destroys the independence and freedom of fair exchange. It decreases, greatly in number, the independent retail dealers. This decrease in number immediately produces a stagnating effect upon employees, property owners and every business related to the operation of retail business. This of course, means less jobs.

This crushing and devastating chain system gains its volume and power by offering you lower prices on standard merchandise.

Their great power of distribution obtained by the destruction of the independent dealer, enables them to dictate costs of manufactured goods.

The manufacturer is helpless because he must have distribution. He must sacrifice his profit to keep his factory operating. He cannot pay a decent, living wage. This condition is passed on to every business in our economic setup.

And you think you are getting bargain prices! What a farce. These bargains are being taken out of your hide.

WAKE UP AND SMELL THE COFFEE!

With puzzled minds we wonder how long depression.

Destroy this monster of human degradation and the depression will lift like a mist after a rainbow. It's up to you.

Signaling by Drums

In South Africa messages are signaled by means of drums made of bark, the tapping on which can be heard many miles away. It is by this method that the defeat of Sir known to natives 60 miles distant in the space of two hours.

MOKENA

Mrs. Herman Woodrich has returned to her home from Silver Cross, and is doing nicely.

A Cash Shower will be sponsored by Rev. and Mrs. Theo. Haeefe on March 1st at 2 p. m., in the St.
John church parlors in Mokena for the Ladies Aid members and their friends. Proceeds of the affair will be used for the church debt retirement fund.

The hard time dance given by the Mokena Unit of the United Unemployed last Friday night at the St.
Marv Hall in Mokena was well attended and about $50 was cleared.

Miss Evelyn Wachter of Mokena is still in the big walkathon at White City in Chicago. She has been in the contest for about two weeks and her name has been mentioned a number of times over the radio in announcements regarding the walkathon.

No bid was received for the home of the late Postmaster Simon Ho-henstein of Mokena, when the property was put up for sale in the Will County Court House recently in order to settle the estate. The property, it is understood, is still being held for a bid.

The condition of Mr. Henry Bechstein, who is ill with heart trouble is about the same.

Mrs. Everett Cree entertained in her home on Maple street, Wednesday evening, at a party in honor of her husband's sister, Miss Marion Cree of Orland Park and her 18th birthday. Twenty-five guests were present. "Bug" was played with prizes being awarded to Ralph Agate, Noble Ginter, Ersel Ketter-ing, Dorothea Mitchell and Ruth Ginter of Orland Park and Howard Spiess of Chicago. Refreshments were served and in departing, the guests extended well wishes for many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Harris of Detroit, Mich., spent several hours in the Geo. Rinke home and with Mrs. Harris' sister, Mrs. N. F. Heiman, Tuesday evening. They were enroute home from a trip to St.
Louis, Mo.
